Key facts: seasonal change

- There are four seasons: spring, summer, autumn and winter
- It is now autumn, if you look outside you will see that the leaves are changing colour and starting to fall from the trees. You may also see acorns, pine cones and conkers.
- Autumn is the time for harvest, which means the gathering of food or crops
- In autumn, lots of animals, such as squirrels, collect and store extra food so they have some left for winter, when it's much harder to find food
